

YOUNG INTERNATIONAL EXECUTIVE LEADERSHIP DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM

About Programme

The Institute of Leadership and Development (ILD) at UiTM is organizing the Young International Executive Leadership Development Programme (YIELD 2023) to enhance UiTM's global presence in university leadership and administration. This programme equips participants with valuable insights, skills, and competencies to excel in leadership roles within the university setting. It is a significant step towards UiTM's goal of becoming a globally renowned university (GRU) by 2025, as outlined in the UiTM2025 strategic plan. Through this programme, UiTM strengthens its position as a respected training institution for future leaders in university administration.

Participants will engage in four modules focusing on competency and talent management in university leadership and administration.

Who Should Join?

University administrative officers, university human resources officers or university administration with at least three years of experience should participate in this program. Participants will be exposed to aspects of competency-based talent management (CBTM), especially in university management. This is based on UiTM's experience and best practices in managing talent and the university's human resources.
